

National Heritage Week Photo Competition

Are you a David Bailey wannabe? Have you got an eagle eye and a steady hand? The National Heritage Week Photo Competition invites you to be part of Heritage Week and to share your best Heritage Week event photos for a chance to win some fantastic prizes!

We want you to use your imagination to capture the connection between people, environment and heritage and share your experiences by uploading your Heritage Week event pics to www.pixie.ie/go/heritageweek between the 22nd August and the 13th of September.

You can enter photos into the categories of Natural Heritage, Built Heritage or Cultural Heritage so no matter what your interests and whether you're 8 or 88, dust off your lens and get snapping during Heritage Week 2009. Photos in each category will be judged on originality and creativity and must demonstrate an understanding of the theme - Heritage Week, be part of it, it's part of you - by linking people, our environment and our heritage.

You can enter up to five photos in each heritage category but don't forget to tell us a bit about the photo such as where you took it, why you like it and why you think it's a winner!

If taking a photo of children you must obtain permission from their parent/guardian to do so, advising the image will be uploaded to the Internet as part of the Heritage Week photo competition and may be used for publicity purposes.
